Mary,

Further to our previous discussion regarding the Aged Pension Work Bonus threshold I would also like to raise the question regarding inflated tax payable by the working member of a couple.

Basically the amount deducted from the non-worker remains on the workers payable taxation.

I recently dropped off an explanation in hard copy at your office which is attached, I have also attached the response to my private ruling application to the ATO.

Mary, could you please ensure this is considered as responses to date seem to be automatic replies stating the current situation known by all rather than addressing the issue.

Thank you for your consideration.

Yours sincerely
